SONA

Sona is a modular furniture system whose constituent elements can be freely combined to match the purpose of the building, and the size and functions of the interior.

Sona is based on eight basic frames. Pouffes or small tables can be used to split rows of seats or finish off the final arrangement. A distinct hallmark of the collection are additional panels, available in two heights, which can be fastened to the backrests. Depending on the selected height, they may separate work and rest zones or serve as divider screens which nevertheless preserve the open formula of the sofa or armchair.

Sona is an ideal solution for creating quiet islands in large open-space offices, also because of the additional functionality of media ports for connecting and charging mobile devices integrated into table tops.
